

Employee Interest/Needs Assessment

Surveys distributed to certain population groups to ascertain their interest in attending or participating in specific activities. These tools are often used by Health Promotion practitioners to determine appropriate intervention strategies and/or incentives.